About NACM Connect Industry Credit Groups

Business credit is the single largest source of business financing, by volume, in the world—even exceeding bank loans. The world's business economic system would not exist without it.

NACM Connect is an affiliate of the nation's largest network of credit professionals. The National Association of Credit Management (NACM) is respected as the leading resource in business credit, collection and financial management. We provide information, products and services for effective business credit and accounts receivable management.

Why Join a Group?

NACM Connect industry credit groups offer open lines of communication for the exchange of information with other credit executives in your industry.

Group members receive invaluable factual credit information that may be used to make independent decisions with respect to the extension of credit. This exchange of data allows

Industry credit groups give members in the same field of business an opportunity to participate in informative roundtable discussions of accounts and share concerns about credit management procedures and techniques on a regular basis. Credit groups operate in virtually every industry, including but not limited to advertising, construction, consumer products, industrial supply, agriculture and steel.

More than 1,500 industry credit groups are sponsored and operated by NACM affiliates. NACM Connect is one of the largest credit group service providers in the NACM system.

you to make better choices that can reduce outstanding delinquent receivables and write-offs for your company.

Not only do our group members receive critical information, but the networking benefits are immeasurable. Group members share information on common customers, the latest in technology for credit management and other credit-related topics. You will have access to expanded tradeline data relative to your industry from over 25 additional NACM affiliates participating in this valuable database enhancement at not cost.

Group Member Testimonials

"Our company joined the NACM Connect Horticultural Group in 2004. This group has given us a valuable decision-making tool when determining creditworthiness of current or potential customers. The communication and information shared by credit professionals within our industry allows us to make sound business decisions, for our company, our customers, and the industry, as a whole. Before we joined the NACM Horticultural group, there was no organized data or communication option that provided consistently reliable and accurate information. There is a collection of horticultural industry credit professionals that communicate freely and trust the judgement and feedback of each other. Joining this group has positively impacted our credit and collection efforts and has been a sound use of our credit and collection expense budget."

*Tim Lott, Vice President/Controller
Eason Horticultural Resources, Inc.*

"Being a member of an industry credit group has been one of the best investments our company has ever made. Over the years, the group reports routinely prove to be an invaluable tool in not only establishing credit lines for new accounts but also in helping identify potential problems with existing accounts. In addition, the educational topics covered at our meetings are a great way to remain up to date on current topics that many of us face in the credit landscape. However, the real value comes in the networking and relationships you build with others not only in credit but in your industry as well. The more knowledge you are able to gather from others in the profession the better asset you are to your company."

*Joel Barta, Corporate Director of Credit
Green Bay Packaging, Inc.*

"I have been participating in my NACM Connect industry group for over 35 years. The group provides a wonderful opportunity for our members to share information on accounts which has proven very valuable over the years helping me prevent losses. Additionally, discussion of current topics in credit help each member expand their knowledge base to be more effective and efficient."

*Ernie Pudliner, Credit Manager
TEC Distribution LLC*
